

It doesn't seem reasonable that consumers should have their fair use of materials curtailed by a new technology. We can record all TV programs now for personal use; why should that not be true for hdtv or any other broadcast? The spectrum belongs, fundamentally, to the public, and the public interest ought to outweigh corporate interests in this case.